It's rather tragic and disheartening to know that if you have enough money that even after being found guilty of breaking the law that a person or organization can bend the judicial system around to benefit the convict and turn their backs on the true victims; the consumers who have continually been taken advantage of. I'd like to get myself in a car wreck and be in the wrong and pay the eye witness rather than the person I hit. It would be much cheaper for me to settle that.
